

Reimagining Oliver Hills Way

Our second youth engagement event for The Reimagining Oliver Hills Way project was great! The goal of the project is: (1) to create a unique one-of-a-kind space for youth, youth experiencing housing instability, and youth in transition; (2) to increase CCC’s service footprint and extend youth services into permanent supportive and affordable housing; (3) to foster a welcoming safe, and empowering environment for youth by better understanding them and their unique personal, social service, and youth-centric programming needs; and (4) to collaborate with community partners to better service Richmond area youth.

While they have accumulated a lot of data from the youth, we need to turn our youths’ ideas into something tangible. This will allow us to understand how to finance the project.

Design Education
City Builders Design Workshop

Our City Builders have a wonderful creative opportunity. Partnering with the Richmond City Health Department, the students will create a poster that will be posted and viewed throughout Richmond City. We will keep you updated on the progress of this project.

Community Driven Design Process

In 2018, a conversation between two organizations focused on a community in Richmond's North Side. It was determined that there was a substantial need empower the youth in the neighborhood to serve as a catalyst for change and for hope. Through a vigorous community engagement process, Re-Imagining Benefield was born. Part of this vision is the Six Points Innovation Center, the home of Saving Our Youth.
